

My opinion about parents eating their kid's candy

Parents should be allowed to eat their kid's halloween candy because they paid for the costume, they walk with you to trick-or-treat, and most of all because they get candy and treats for us so we can give back candy.

One reason that parents should be allowed to eat their kid's candy is they pay for the costumes. For example, once my mom got me a cat tail. Also, she got me kitty ears and a mask. Another example is she bought a really expensive witch hat for my sister's costume.

The next reason that parents should be allowed to eat their kid's halloween candy is they walk with you to trick-or-treat. For example, my parents walk a mile to trick-or-treat with me. Also, they they walk in the rain with us. Another example is they carry the candy sometimes.

The most important reason that parents should be allowed to eat their kid's candy is they get candy and treats for us so we can give back candy. For example, my mom went out and got a huge bag of candy to give out. Also, one time my dad got donuts for us. Another example is one time, my dad went and got a ton of stuff to make cupcakes with. I hope you agree with me, and if you do, please give your parents some of your candy tonight.
